NONSTOP SEA FLIGHT MADE BY ALCOCK

AVIATORS CARRY DOG AND CAT AS MASCOTS ON TRIP.
SAW SUN ONCE WHILE CROSSING

Weather Bad; Plane Traveled Through Downpour; Ice Clogged Gauge.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
London, June 15.—When the Vickers-Vimy biplane driven by Capt. John Alcock was first sighted crossing the Irish coast, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail, from Clifden, Galway, an airplane flew out of the Oramore airfield to render assistance. This machine landed near the Vimy but was wrecked, owing to the softness of the ground.

When the Vickers-Vimy machine landed, Lieut. Arthur W. Brown, the navigator, said to Captain Alcock: "What do you think of this for fancy flying?" and the pilot of the machine responded: "Very good." The two men who had just completed an epoch-making voyage then shook hands.

Deaf and Dazed.
When assistance reached the machine the two aviators were helped to the ground and it was found that Lieutenant Brown was slightly injured on the nose and mouth by the jolt given them when it struck the ground. Both men were deaf and dazed and were unable to walk steadily for some minutes. They quickly recovered, however, and were escorted to the wireless station. They distributed cigarettes as souvenirs, and gave away the small dog and cat which were mascots during the trip. The entire company was welcomed by the downpour during the journey.

Describing the trip, Captain Alcock said the sun came out only once when the biplane had attained a height of 11,000 feet. Only three astronomical observations were possible. The altitude of the machine varied from a few feet from the water up to 13,000 feet and the fliers did not sight a single ship.

Almost Landed in Ocean.
"I didn't know once during the night whether I was upside down or not," said Captain Alcock. "Once we ascended hurriedly when we saw the green Atlantic only 30 feet below."

The biplane was towed by the surface of the sea. When it happened, Lieutenant Alcock noted that the propeller had carried away with it one of the stay wires, but he did not tell Captain Alcock until after they had landed at Clifden. When Alcock learned of the accident, he said: "I would have turned back had I known."

BURLESON YIELDS; TELEGRAPHERS ARE INCLUDED IN ORDER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Atlantic City, N. J., June 15.—Postmaster General Burleson's order granting the right of collective bargaining to telegraph and telephone workers, the signing of which Saturday averted a nationwide strike, applies to all other employees under the postoffice department, including telegraph operators and postal employees, according to a report by F. H. McCauley, chairman of the committee that went to Washington.

Both Sides Wait.
Chicago, June 15.—Both sides in the strike telegraphers today awaited implementation of the statement made at Atlantic City last night by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, that Postmaster General Burleson had promised to issue orders which would result in conferences between officials of the telegraph companies and the union.

The proposed strike of electrical workers set for today was called off after Postmaster General Burleson granted their demands for collective bargaining and adjustment of wage scales.

KENNEDY REFUSES TO QUIT

MEMBER OF FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION ANNOUNCES THAT HE WILL NOT RESIGN.
DENIES CHARGES MADE BY OFFICERS

Officers Ask Formal Appointment of William E. Gower As Head of Local Police Department.
John E. Kennedy, member of the Fire and Police commission, whose dismissal from the board, was demanded by five police officers, today branded as lies the allegations made by the officers Saturday. Mr. Kennedy emphatically stated that he knew nothing of the charges and said that at no time since his appointment has he made any slanderous remarks against the police department.

Counter charges were made by the officers which they assert that they have proof that Kennedy was in the habit of visiting downtown saloons and betting the department. They allege that Kennedy has not only slandered Chief William Gower, but at one time said, "that Chief Gower ought to hire one more man and then jump in the river."

"I have never slandered the department and furthermore I have nothing to do regarding the hours, or salary paid the policemen," Mr. Kennedy said. He asserted that he had nothing to do with the hiring of a new chief and insisted that it was another member of the body and not he who went to Evansville, Ind., last week in an effort to engage Fred Gilman as head of the Janesville department.

Claims He Is "Gout"
Mr. Kennedy said that he knew no reason why the departing officers should have picked him out as the "gout." He stated that he was ready at all times to do all he possibly could for the department and it was a surprise to him when the allegations were issued by the men.

Failing to receive any word from the members of the fire and police board, the five officers, Jay Hymers, Roy Worthington, Ray Woodruff, Milton Korns, and Lorenzo Cain, returned in their stars to Chief Gower, Saturday night as the town clock tolled the hour of seven.

In their charges they not only ask for the dismissal of Kennedy, but ask for more pay, shorter working hours and the formal appointment of William E. Gower as head of the local department. Mr. Gower has been asked to resign today since the resignation of Peter D. Champion.

The men also allege that no encouragement has been given them by the members of the commission and that the officers said that many times arrests are made and the men given their liberty at the request of the different members of the commission.

Hun Awaits New Terms; "No" on Lips

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Berlin, Saturday, June 14.—A canvass of official quarters this evening adduced the blunt, positive statement that unless the revised proposals of the entire nations contain most radical modifications in spirit and in letter, Germany would not sign the peace treaty.

While the postponed delivery of the entire reply was looked upon as a favorable omen, it may be said tonight that the government also so far as it is still represented in Berlin is not indulging in the luxury of undue illusions as to what the next 24 hours will bring. Alleged modifications in the draft of the treaty, as reported to Berlin through neutral news sources, are rejected as wholly insufficient to warrant the prediction that the government will be inclined to subject them to closer scrutiny.

Emphasis was also placed on the statement that the cabinet, which now is fully represented at Weimar, was united. It was pointed out that the peace commission of the national assembly was solidly backing up the cabinet in its determination to refuse to sign a pact not representing the greatest possible divergence from the original proposals. Political outlookers here are unable to figure out how Erzberger has been brushing aside these rumors, disposing of them by saying that the present coalition government is not only intact, but holds an undisputed mandate from the German people and from the national assembly which is a thoroughly representative of people's will.

GERMANS ARE GIVEN NEW TERMS

ALLIES' REPLY TO COUNTER PROPOSALS PRESENTED TO ENEMY.
HUN EXPECTED TO ASK FOR TIME

Request To Be Based On Fact They Were Given Only One Copy.
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]
Paris, June 15.—It is anticipated generally that the Germans will ask for an extension of time in which to reply to the final peace conditions. The request, it is believed, will be based on the fact that the Germans were given only one revised copy of the treaty.

The reply of the allies to the German counter proposals will be delivered to Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the enemy peace delegation, at Versailles at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Paul Dutaast, secretary of the peace conference, will take the revised treaty personally to Versailles to hand it to the Germans.

Hold General Vindictive.
Marshall Trenchard, General Bliss, and other military leaders attended the meeting of the Council of Five today. The meeting developed the nature of a general windup of the German situation.

The allies have promised Germany to deliver within one month a list of persons whom they intend to try for the responsibility for the war and violation of the laws of war.

The resolutions adopted by the American congress on the Irish question have been formally transmitted to the peace conference. Frank J. Walsh and Edward P. Dunne, the delegates representing Irish societies of the United States, have been informed. No intimation has been given of the character of the letter of transmittal.

VETS JOIN WITH ELKS IN TRIBUTE TO FLAG; REV. MAHONEY SPEAKS

Over 250 veterans of Uncle Sam's great fighting force were informally gathered by the local Elks lodge Sunday afternoon with a dinner in the Elks' club rooms.

The boys, as they were called yesterday, were in a festive mood from the time they were greeted at the door by the welcoming committee. They were made to feel at home and assured that the Elks were eager to do all they possibly could for the boys of the recent world war.

At the conclusion of the dinner the men marched to the Court House park, accompanied by the Bowler City band, where they participated in Flag Day exercises under the auspices of the Elks.

Ranks Make No Difference.
Veterans of the great war from all parts of Rock county, and ranking from privates to a major, attended from the Elks' dining room. Van der Elks' ranking officer, it made no difference to the boys yesterday whether a man was wearing a maple leaf, two silver bars, or just one chevron. They were all assembled for the same purpose and no formal greetings were exchanged during the day. There was plenty of jazz music furnished by the Lakota orchestra, during the dinner.

Exalted Ruler Joseph Scholler was introduced to the men by William Dougherty, chairman of the meeting. Mr. Scholler extended a warm welcome to the men and told them of the work of the Elks in conjunction with the Salvation Army during the war.

The Mexican rebels and federal troops fought in the streets of Juarez Saturday night and Sunday morning, with both sides being killed. Many bullets from the rebel guns came across the Rio Grande. Two persons were killed and seven wounded on the American side.

Orders Yanks Across
When the Mexican bullet became too thick for the safety of citizens of El Paso, Brig. Gen. J. B. Erwin at 11 o'clock last night ordered American troops to cross the border, and in 10 minutes after the order was issued, 3,500 United States soldiers crossed the border. The 4th battalion of the 24th infantry (colored), a battalion of the 52nd artillery and the fifth and seventh cavalry.

After the federals were allowed to retire into the town, Colonel Hadsell's colored infantry opened up with a terrific rifle fire on the trenches flanking the race track. They advanced in open order and succeeded in dislodging the Villa forces who held the strongest positions. The colored troops were forced to advance across the race track. The first volleys from the rifleman were answered, shot for shot, by the Villa troops who seemed to realize that they were in the line of fire.

UNDEVELOPED CHILD OF EUROPE CRIES TO WORLD FOR HELP

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, June 15.—The saddest sight in Europe today is that of the children of eight and ten years of age who look and act like children of four and six and eight years," says Dr. Vernon Kellogg, who recently returned from a tour of Europe for the American Relief Administration.
"They have been underfed for four years," continues Dr. Kellogg. "Many have died, many are war orphans, the parents of many are absolutely destitute. Mal-nutrition has weakened them; has retarded their growth and development. Their feeble voices cry to the world for help."
Herbert C. Hoover, set aside for children's relief work in Europe $2,000,000 of the $100,000,000 appropriated by the United States congress for relief work in the war desolated countries of Europe. To expend this $2,000,000 the American Relief Administration has established a special children's relief bureau. Describing the work of this bureau, Dr. Kellogg writes in a bulletin issued by the American Relief Administration:
"From its own funds, added to by grants from the governments of governments of Eastern Europe and by gifts from private charity, the children's bureau is trying to furnish free food to the destitute infants and adolescents of the newly liberated peoples of Europe."
"The American Relief Administration announces that it is willing and anxious to receive and expend for this purpose any money donated to it by any charitable organizations and persons interested."

METHODISTS RECRUIT 100 TROMBONISTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Columbus, O., June 16.—A choir of 100 trombones, said to be the largest ever organized, will be a feature of the Methodist Centenary celebration here June 20 to July 13, which will mark the close of 100 years of missionary work by the Methodist Episcopal church.
Also and tenor were the principal trombones used by the choir which has been rehearsing for weeks. To give the complete voicing necessary, soprano and bass trombones had to be produced in large numbers and the trombone choir had to acquire a new technique. The soprano trombone, in particular, had not been used in concert in more than 100 years, according to G. S. Dickson, organizing secretary.
Special scores had to be prepared for the greatest church hymns and for the greatest choruses of sacred and secular music. Besides the trombone choir, there will be a $50,000 pipe organ, a mixed chorus of 1,500 voices, a chorus of 600 negro singers, a group of trained oratorio singers and a band from the famous Rainbow division.
Public buildings and private homes will be used to accommodate the 200,000 to 300,000 visitors expected at the celebration which, directed by Dr. Dickson, will be the biggest church meeting ever held. The State School for the Blind, the State School for the Deaf, and the former army barracks on the Ohio State university campus will be used to house the delegates. Forty thousand rooms in private homes also have been listed.
Hundreds of delegates will eat their meals in former prisons which were turned out of business when Ohio became dry May 27 and which have been converted into restaurants to accommodate the visitors.
Automobile caravans will bring the delegates from Council Bluffs, Ia.; Springfield, Ill.; Pittsburgh, Texas; South Dakota, Virginia and other far away points. The celebration will take the form of a big missionary exhibition.

Why Gasoline Prices Are Low

THE fact that gasoline prices are low constitutes the achievement of an ideal on the part of the Standard Oil Company. There are several contributing factors.

The ingenuity of the automobile engineers in producing cars at moderate prices and the efficiency of the Standard Oil Company in producing gasoline in sufficient quantities to supply the demand have placed both in the light of staples.

The demand for gasoline is steady—the supply is steady—thus enabling the Company to utilize its equipment to a maximum capacity which in turn keeps down the costs and therefore selling prices.

The Standard Oil Company through long years of experience is able to rescue and utilize all of those fractions which go to make gasoline, and to utilize all by-products for commodities of universal use.

This plays an important part in keeping down manufacturing costs on the basic product—gasoline.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) furthermore steadfastly adheres to a fixed policy of supplying first, the patrons of the eleven states it serves.

Thus at all times is there an ample supply for every five gallon buyer and every five thousand gallon buyer with no embarrassing demands from outside to drain the supply and force an increase in price.

It is by this husbandry that the Company is able to keep down the price of gasoline that you may run your car for the enjoyment of your family or the furtherance of your business without great expense for fuel.

You may not know that gasoline sells in this market for about one-half or one-third the price charged in Europe even under all pre-war conditions.

Perfect Health Is Yours
If the Blood Is Kept PureAlmost Every Human Ailment
Traceable to Impure Blood.

You can not overestimate the importance of keeping the blood free of impurities. When you realize that the heart is constantly pumping this vital fluid to all parts of the body, you can easily see that any impurity in the blood will cause serious complications.

Any slight disorder or impurity that creeps into the blood is a source of danger, for every vital organ of the body depends upon the blood supply to properly perform its functions.

Many painful and dangerous diseases are the direct result of a bad condition of the blood. Among the most serious are Rheumatism, with its torturing pains; Catarrh, often a forerunner of dread consumption; Scrofula, Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas and other disfiguring skin diseases; Malania, which makes the strongest men helpless, and many other diseases.

You can easily avoid all of these diseases, and rid the system of them, by the use of S. S. S., the wonderful blood remedy that has been in constant use for more than fifty years. S. S. S. cleanses the blood thoroughly, and routs every vestige of impurity. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

Held Saturday Classes,
Now Want Extra Pay

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]

Galena, Kan., June 16.—The school teachers of the Galena public schools have brought suit for two weeks' salary against the school board. For two weeks last fall and winter the schools were closed on account of the "flu" epidemic. The board of education endeavored to make up the lost time by having school on Saturdays. This was too strenuous, so the teachers objected, and it was stopped. Now the teachers want pay for the extra Saturdays.

There's no reason why a merchant should worry about his income tax report or his store records

THE average storekeeper who uses a bank check book and an up-to-date National Cash Register can get the figures which tell him how his business stands every day, and the figures he needs for his income tax report once a year.

From his check book and bills:

He can get the cost of running his store, cost of merchandise bought, and a record of payments made.

From his National Cash Register:

He can get a record of his store transactions:

- | | |
|----------------|-----------------------|
| ① Cash Sales | ③ Received on Account |
| ② Charge Sales | ④ Petty Cash Paid Out |

These store transactions are the basis of his gross income. They total sixty per cent to ninety per cent of the details occupying his time and clerical labor. They must be made rapidly during the rush of selling. They are hard to get, hard to keep, impossible to verify, and expensive to record unless he uses a modern National Cash Register.

National Cash Register figures are the foundation for accounting systems in stores all over the world. A post card or phone call will bring you full information about the way a modern N. C. R. System will keep your store records by machinery.

LET US CLEAN UP.

Janesville's police situation has reached a crisis. The members of the force have resigned because they charge that a member of the fire and police commission has threatened, in public places, to get their jobs. They are all men with families who have been respected for their citizenship and for their loyalty to duty. They have been residents of the city for many years, perhaps some of them all their lives. They also have more money and shorter hours than most citizens have enjoyed.

Janesville might as well face the problem all growing cities must face,
as far as her police force is concerned, without warring. Petty grudges and jealousies must be set aside and an organization which will afford proper protection must be welded together, regardless of any desires of a few individuals who might wish to run city affairs in their own way.

If it is true that one of the members of the police commission has been allying the city's business in public places and has made threats to get the jobs of certain members of the force, he is not a desirable member of the board and should resign.
The other members of the commission should resent any individual member of that body taking upon himself the duty of deciding who is to work on the force and who is not.

Janesville has gotten beyond the stage where one, two or three individuals can run the city. The citizens have become inoculated with a community spirit which will make our town bigger and better. They will not be content to allow any man to assume that he could dictate to the determination of the whole citizenship.
Those in public offices have obligations and they are responsible to the people and no one else. If they see fit to remove men from offices because it appears that they are not doing their duty, it is their privilege to do so.

Janesville citizens in the majority stand solidly behind any public official who is attempting to perform constructive work. They are quick to demand that their affairs be conducted in the proper manner.

Whether or not Chief Gower has had an opportunity to show what he could do if not molested is a question in the minds of many who have taken an interest in the police situation. If one member of the police and fire commission should be allowed to hamper the work of the chief of the department it is doubtful if the best official on earth could make any progress. It is certain that perfecting an organization would be most difficult.

No matter who is right or wrong in the controversy, the whole affair should be opened up, the charges either proved or disproved, and the public given assurance that police affairs will be conducted in the future in a business-like manner.

It is the duty of Mayor Welsh to make a thorough investigation of the charges and make a report to the citizens, to whom only he is responsible.
At the time of his election he asserted he would stand squarely for the better city. He has an opportunity to make good on that promise without delay.

The earnest men of this city have demonstrated time and again in the last few months that they will sacrifice time and money to make the city
one of the best in the middle west.
They will go the limit with those in public offices who are willing to do their work for the benefit of the whole community. But these same men will not allow any one individual or group to conduct affairs in a manner that will work against the welfare of the city.

PUT IT TO DEATH.

Instant protest on the Arnold bill, which provides for an increase of 25 percent on incomes in excess of $20,000, has arisen from all over the state. The senate passed the measure last week and it is now before the assembly. Business men have declared that the passage of such a law would make competition with other states impossible and would cause an exodus from Wisconsin.

The local Chamber of Commerce has sent a protest against further passage of the measure and has declared that it would fight the bill to the end. Assemblyman Nolan has declared that he will oppose the measure. Individuals in this vicinity have voiced their disapproval of the measure as well as the senate's action in passing it.

Every person who has the interest of the state at heart should immediately petition his representative in the lower house to kill the bill.

IT SHOULD CONTINUE.

A meeting of the Apollo club has been called for tonight to determine whether or not the organization should be continued. It should be by all means. It is one of the strongest musical organizations in the city and its influence is felt. It allowed to be abandoned it will work a hardship upon the people of the community. It has been instrumental in bringing some of the greatest artists to our city and has given us opportunity to hear some of the best music. By all means vote tonight for the continuation of the Apollo club.

People can breathe a sigh of relief
now the carnival which occupied lowntown streets and furnished a hazard because of partly blocking the streets and endangering life and property has departed with a lot of the people's money. It is a safe bet that the members of the outfit who risked in the coin are laughing up their sleeves at a city in these days which will allow them to show on the streets.

Vacation time is on full blast and the kids who have worked hard at school can enjoy the next few weeks to the fullest extent. They should experience great satisfaction in knowing that their work has been well done.

Two men have crossed the Atlantic ocean in a little more than 16 hours.
As soon as an airline across the ocean is established the next step will be to get in touch with Mars or some of the other planets. A trip to the moon perhaps may come later.

Citizens declare they do not want

Along The Road

By the Observer.

"Observe, and thou shalt wonders see!"
—Schiller.

In those six words, Schiller spoke more truth than if he had preached a lay sermon. It is observation of things around us that brings out the truth. It is the ordinary things which bring out thoughts awakening our perception and leading us to take advantage of those things which open our eyes to our possibilities for getting the best from life.

The Observer meets many men and women each day. Almost every one of them leaves an idea, which if passed on, would be of benefit to many.
The Observer is going to hand some of the thoughts presented to him to the readers of the Gazette. Perhaps the you will not agree with them. Perhaps the Observer will not. But the aim is to give them as they come with the hope that they will prove interesting.

Most of us make our observations as we pass "Along the Road." Whether we are aimlessly wandering or speeding on some important mission, we see many things but give them little thought. As we pass
"Along the Road" of life, we observe and learn and succeed.

The other morning as the Observer was speeding along a country road
a few miles from Milton, sudden silence from the automobile engine, announced that the supply of gasoline was exhausted. Tramping for a farm house, a quarter of a mile away, we found Laurence Campion, one of our prosperous Rock county farmers at work in his barn. He graciously supplied a gallon of gas, and while he was drawing it, we got to talking about the daylight saving law.
He objected to it, as have thousands of other farmers of this country.

"Why?" I asked him.
"Because we cannot finish our work an hour earlier in the evening and take part in the social life that the city folks do," he said. "For instance, if we wish to go to a show that starts at eight o'clock under the daylight time schedule, we cannot get ready and get to town in time. And nowadays the help on the farm is much more independent than they were a few years ago and it is difficult to get hired men to work when they wish to enjoy the same privileges as their city brothers.
The auto has made it possible for them to leave the distance between the farm and the city and they are not satisfied to stay on the place after work is done."

The Observer had to admit that perhaps this was a problem which had not been brought to the attention of the public.
"But the farmers are in the minority in this country," was my next assertion. "Shouldn't the major and women who work in the factories, stores and other institutions be given consideration?"

"Yes, but they would have little to eat if the farmers were not on the job," came the unexpected reply.

JUST FOLKS

VICTORY.

Rejoice, oh parents of the dead!
It was for this their blood was shed.
This is the gift they died to buy.
Beneath a troubled foreign sky:
For Victory they marched away,
Receive it from their hands today!

Be proud, oh parents of the sons.
Who faced the line of German guns.
Who paid the cruel fields of pain!
They did not suffer there in vain.
Hold high your heads and cease to grieve.
And from their hands their gift receive.

This is the victory they sought.
The glorious goal for which they fought.
This is the joy they went to buy!
For this glad hour they dared to die!
Oh loved ones now exult and take
The greatest gift that man can make!

This is the triumph of your dead!
The cause for which their blood was shed.
This is the gift they went to gain.
For this they braved the fields of pain!
Today the guns of hatred cease.
Your gallant soldiers sleep in peace.

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.

The wife looked at me
And I looked at her,
And we both looked away
And sort of choked up.
Then we looked at the boy.
The six-year-old,
And tears came to our eyes.
It was the morning
Of a tragic day in our family.
We took the train for town
And coddled the youngster.
For he was the one who Was going to have the operation.
It was a sad, dark morning.
With a slight drizzle of rain,
And we were desolate.
Beyond all hope of reclamation.
First the wife held the boy
And then I held him.
Nothing like this had ever Happened to us before.
Just before we got to town
The boy yelled:
"Look, dad! I pulled That loose tooth out myself!"
And he held it up in his hand
And we both hugged him.
And the passengers all thought
That we were crazy
And I guess they were right.

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

GEN. AVARO OBREGON.
While Felipe Angeles is promising to regenerate Mexico by force of arms
another well-known Mexican, General Avaro Obregon, is seeking to attain leadership by a different route.

The Mexican elections are set for Sept. 7, and General Obregon announces himself
as a candidate for the presidency.
Though a man of considerable independence Obregon
may be suspected of being prospecting Carranza's policy. He has been Carranza's ablest
military lieutenant and without his support Carranza could not have elevated himself to his present position. Carranza is not a candidate for re-election, and it is likely the Obregon enters the presidential race with Carranza's blessing.

However, there is one plank in Obregon's platform which seems somewhat odd with the Carranza principles and practice. Obregon formally declares in favor of a "complete respect of the sovereignty and institutions of all other nations which are in any way represented with the borders of Mexico." If this means anything it is that Obregon does not contemplate the confiscation of American or European property or the discouragement of American or European capital.

Although "dollar diplomacy" is no longer the dominant American policy in Latin American affairs, the time is near at hand when the United States may be called on to protect, even though the use of force, the property of Americans and Europeans in Mexico. Were Carranza to continue much longer as president the time for action might come before his retirement.
But, as he has promised to get out,
the elections may be hopefully awaited. If Obregon means what he says he may work the needful change in Mexico's attitude. Obregon's peaceful method is certainly more commen-sable than Angell's threatened revolution. If Obregon is indeed the Carranza legatee he is very likely to be elected, for Carranza will control the election machinery in the regions which he dominates and votes cast in other words, Angell could not possibly hope to succeed Carranza by means of an election.

Mexican Jail Customs Mystify City Officials

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Junction City, Mo., June 16.—When a bunch of 14 Mexicans, working on a railroad, were arrested and taken to all the city officials had no idea that Mexican customs would be transported to this town, so far away from the border. A short time after the arrest a crowd of Mexican women and children bearing fruit, tobacco and food, went to the jail and wanted to feed
the prisoners.
The police were mystified until an interpreter explained that the custom in Mexico was when a man was arrested for his relatives to provide the food. The "hoboes" thought the same plan prevailed here.
However, the city provides each man in jail with two meals a day, so with two big meals from the city and what their relatives brought the Mexicans lived high during their incarceration.

Fruitarian Deplores Too Much Meat-Eating

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, June 16.—Meat-eating is injurious to the vitality of the race,
Dr. Josiah Oldfield, a London physician told the Fruitarian society the other day.

"In every country," he went on,
"where meat-eating is a national habit, the birth rate has decreased in the last 50 years."
Experiments showed, he said, that meat-eating produced sterility. Eggs today, he remarked, were not as healthy as they should be because hens were over taxed with egg-producing food, such as fish, blood and meat.
He said that in his hospital care was taken that the eggs used were laid by fowls which fed naturally on grain or in the fields.

FEDERATED CHURCH TO BE CONTINUED; CONGREGATIONS VOTE

"To be or not to be," that was the question which agitated the members of the Congregational and Presbyterian church societies who have been working along common lines in a federated church movement during the past year and who voted on the success of the experiment yesterday morning. The vote was unanimously in favor of the success of the work during the past year and in favor of continuing it during another year as expressed by the Congregational society. With the Presbyterian organization 169 votes were cast, with 138 voting in favor of the federation and 46 against it. A large membership of both societies was present.

At the Congregational meeting the society was broken up, being chosen as chairman and H. J. Cunningham as moderator. With absolutely no opposition and without a dissenting vote both questions passed and the success of the federation was voted in favor of the continuation of the federated work another year, were passed unanimously.

The church meeting was held in the church auditorium, more opposition to the plan developed, and discussion was free and open. But the vote was taken and the success of the federation was voted in favor of the continuation of the federated work another year, were passed unanimously.

REV. LEWIS PREACHES ON INTER-CHURCH MOVEMENT OF TODAY

REV. LEWIS. An enlightening sermon along the line of thoughts suggested by the Inter Church movement of today was preached by Rev. F. F. Lewis at a meeting of the Federated Baptist and Methodist churches held in the Baptist edifice last evening.

Rev. Lewis' sermon was an address to a conference of interchurch state workers held in Milwaukee this past week and was profoundly impressed with the current of the day's work and the current of the day's work and the current of the day's work.

He said it was a significant thing that the church was about to achieve a new era in its history. He emphasized the thought that the healing of the nations of the earth should be the program of the church.

He noted some of the things which nations must be saved from to be able to understand Christianity. Some of these were the abject poverty which some peoples and races were laboring under, the moral incompetency of many states, and the spiritual unhappiness which afflicted them from ignorance and superstition.

A solo "When the Roses Bloom," was sung by Miss Alpha Rector and Mrs. Alice Thomas sang "Praise the Lord." It was indicated that tentative plans were being formulated to hold union evening services for a time in the Court House park.

A significant thing showing the trend of the times was that the local Baptist society at a business meeting held yesterday voted to admit to associate membership in the church by letter those belonging to the Baptist church who have not been baptized by the Baptist rituals. Associate membership will include all privileges of the church excepting serving on the board of deacons and on the pulpit committee.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

THE TRAP.
With a scream she flew round the partition, only to bump into the floor manager, who was coming to rebuke her for not being at work. He stopped, staring, then turned and rushed back into the workroom, waving his thick arms.

"Fire! Fire!" he cried hoarsely. "FIRE!"
With one wild movement, 150 girls jumped from their machines and dashed for the door.

Screaming, with arms outstretched and eyes starting, they pushed, jamming in one mass at the exit. Annie in the midst of them, gasping. Those in front pounded with mad energy fast upon the elevator door. Those in the middle cried out that they were suffocating and fought wildly to get loose from the press.

Some one shrieked "Go to the fire escape!" and a score of those at the back hurried themselves in its direction, catching their feet in the masses of white goods from the machines.

The door to the fire escape was locked. The room was now filled with smoke. Some one seized a chair and smashed the windows one after another, the crash adding to the terror of the scene. Struck walls, curses, out through the thickened air. Flames leaped toward the center of the room, the burned partition falling with a crash. Tongues of fire, flames, and smoke.

Annie fought to keep her reason. Suddenly she saw a solid block of human beings jammed into the cage. Annie among them. The terrified elevator runner bellowed, "There ain't no more room! Keep back!" The car slowly descended.

Upon Annie so that she could scarcely keep her senses. A heavy thud came from above her head, rattling her to sharp consciousness. Then another—still another. A girl's hand and arm came through the grillwork on top of the car. They were jumping down the elevator shaft striking dully one on another, as Annie, released at last with the others, ran shrieking into the street—into pandemonium. But she had escaped! She was alive! She was breathing free air again. Her bruised body was capable of movement. Her face was scratched, and dazed with shock, her hair half down, her clothing torn, but the miracle had happened: she lived and was unhurt.

She stumbled over a hose that snaked along the wet pavement, freed of its burden, she fell back, and was stopped against a knot of shouting, sweating firemen who were trying to get a ladder up the side of the building to the red hell that raged above.

Men roared. The firemen rushed down the thick hurtle. Annie turned sick and dropped to her knees. There was an appalling thud. Another—and another. She buried her face in her hands and moaned. Some one caught her by the arm and flung her out of the path. Blindly she struggled to her feet and lunged along. As she pressed her way around the corner of the building one of the awful flames and crashed through the glass- and-concrete sidewalk.

SIDE TALKS

—By—
RUTH CAMERON

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE DICE.

One sometimes hear people who are disappointed in matrimony blame their disappointment on the fact that the party of the second part produced some entirely unexpected and disagreeable characteristics. After marriage the never-hears people say "I married him (or her) because he had this or that quality and now I wish I could unmarry him because he still has it. And yet I fancy that is quite as often the case as the first."

Take for instance the man who falls in love with a young girl partly because he enjoys her thoroughly feminine (according to the old connotations of that word) reactions to everything. In courtship he finds her lack of logic perfectly charming, her inconsequential ways are adorable, even things bordering on silliness delight him. All these things are such a change from the world of men and business in which he lives.

By and by they are married and in the course of time come down to the brass tacks of everyday life. And then to his surprise he finds that her old-fashioned femininity, her lack of logic, her inconsequence are not half so adorable when they come into play in the relation between man and wife.

He is at first surprised, then exasperated and perhaps in the end (it all depends on how she develops and what is the strength of the other ties between the pair) alienated.

She has not changed—just stayed the same.

Yet she has not changed or produced any new qualities. It is only that he has changed. He is now what he was when he married her.

It is simply the old story of "les défauts des qualités." What appears to us faults are simply after-marriage manifestations of the same fundamental quality whose pre-marriage manifestations seemed virtues. May I not suggest that it is a good thing for prospective lovers to turn over the qualities of their loved ones as one turns over a pair of dice and see what is on the other side? Not much good. Nature, I suppose, will see well to that.

boy will ever become strong and the rupture heal? (M. L. J.)
ANSWER—The hernia (breach, rupture) has nothing to do with the boy's strength. It is merely an accident of development. If the belt or support prevents any bulging of protrusion there is still a chance that the rupture may heal, though after the first year such chance is very small. In the third year, if the rupture is still present, the child should be operated on for permanent cure.

Excessive Precipitation under Arms.
Will you please publish again a formula you printed months ago for relief of excessive perspiration in the armpits? (M. M. L.)

ANSWER—If you mean beneficial for reducing fat count, the formula is just a bad joke on a credulous individual. The credulous sex becomes more so with obesity. The only safe and effective way to reduce is by controlling the intake of food and the output of energy—diet and exercise. Glad to give definite suggestions if you will accompany your request with a stamped addressed envelope for reply by mail.

Does Rupture Heal Spontaneously?

When our boy was a year old we discovered that he had a rupture in the right groin. The doctor applied a kind of belt for support. But after four months the rupture remained. Do you think that there is a chance that the

FOR MEATLESS DAYS.
Vegetable Nut Loaf—Wash and prepare the following vegetables and then put them through the food chopper: One large stalk of celery, two medium sized onions, six branches of parsley. Place in a bowl and add two cups of cold boiled rice, two eggs, one and one-half teaspoons of salt, one teaspoon of paprika, one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, three tablespoons of shortening, one-half cup of fine bread crumbs. Mix thoroughly and then pack into a greased and floured loaf-shaped pan and bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes.

Supreme Sauce—One and one-half cups of milk, four tablespoons of cornstarch. Place in a saucepan and then dissolve the starch. Bring to a boil and cook for five minutes. Now add two teaspoons of salt, one teaspoon of paprika, juice of one lemon, one well-beaten egg, one-half cup of milk. Sprinkle the top with the crumbs and two tablespoons of grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Garnish with parsley and serve.

DISCOVERIES.
Rhubarb has a great deal of oxalic acid in it, so to get that bitter taste out without spoiling it cut in small pieces and boil in a dish. Then pour boiling water over it. Let it stay in hot water 20 minutes or half an hour. Turn out and throw that bitter water away and cook. It doesn't taste much sugar to sweeten now and it has a beautiful color. Cooking with all the acid in gives it a very ugly color. Never put salt or soda in, as it destroys the rhubarb.

Canned rhubarb is fine mixed with carrot jam instead of lemons.

Here are ingredients for a single loaf of bread: Scald one cup of milk; when cool, add a saltspoon of salt and half a compressed yeast cake crumbled. With a spoon, two cups of flour. When the dough is quite stiff, knead it 10 minutes. Put it in a bowl, cover in a warm place for two hours or until light. Knead and mold into one loaf. Put into a greased square breadpan and cover in a warm place for an hour until light. Pick the top lightly with a fork, brush it with water, and bake in a moderate oven quick oven three-quarters of an hour.

To perfectly clean a Panama hat, rip off all trimmings, brush well, then paint over with white shoe cleaner; it will be like new when dry.

Kansas City, Mo., June 16.—A new way of venting spite against a girl who rejected his attentions was devised by Clarence Demerko, but it proved too costly for practical purposes. Demerko became infatuated with Miss Nora Helge, daughter of his landlady. Rejected, he became angry, broke open her trunk, took all her dainty clothes and put them in a tub and poured water on them. Many of them were ruined. Miss Helge and her mother had him arrested and he was fined $100 in police court.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MISS THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I suppose a letter like this is very unusual, but it may be that someone else is confronted with a like problem too.

I have been married several years; my husband is a very good man and kind to me as when I married him, which is saying a good deal, isn't it? But he was brought up, or rather "grew" up without anyone bothering about such trifling things as manners.

At the table he scoots down in his chair, eats with his knife, pushes his food onto his knife with his fingers, chews with his mouth open and holds his glass right under his nose. He crams his mouth and is in such a rush he never notices anyone else at the table. I must reach for that pepper box so he will not bother. No one can sit opposite him at table because his feet go clear across and out the other side. There are so many other things I can't get down and go in anywhere he struts right in and if I don't look out I get slammed in the face with the door.

I never nag at him. But have often tried in a sort of half-joking way to make him ashamed of himself, and to get him to do better. It amounted to nothing. A couple of years ago he was so humiliated by anger boiled over and for once, the only time, I told him everything I could think of. I, as you might say, just raked him up one side and down the other. When I got all through, what do you suppose he said? "I wouldn't look like that to you," with an injured look on his face. I could see, though, that he cried to do better, for several days, but it soon wore off.

My father has never seen my husband, but writes he may visit us this summer. I am crazy to have him. I don't like him, but at the same time I dread to have him come. I love my husband dearly, but I just feel like shrieking sometimes, and I don't see how I can bear to have my father here. If he would just leave off some of the most glaring of his faults, would you do the little ones. What would you do?

DISCOURAGED.
Your husband must be good to you. His reply when you upbraided him, shows that he is a good man. He has taken the wrong course in ridiculing him. The prospective visit of your father affords you a chance to try a new plan. Choose a propitious moment to tell your husband of your wish to come. Then explain how your husband's table and general manners make it almost impossible to have any visitors. Ask him earnestly to try to do better. Tell him that you are not cursing him or trying to humiliate him, but are asking him to correct a fault for his own sake and for yours. If he is kind to you in other ways he ought to heed your request. You might get a small book on etiquette for him and read it with him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow of 59 and would like to get acquainted with some gentleman a little older, as I am not acquainted with anyone. If I could be introduced to any gentleman, please tell me how.

LONELY.
There seems to be a natural law which attracts people to each other. Some are very lonely, while others make and keep friends easily. Introductions mean little, because often nothing develops from them. Attend church and see if you can meet a gentleman there who will prove a friend. I am aware that my readers do not like the suggestion of seeking introductions at church, but if they will stop to consider, they must admit that there is no other place except through friends.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

CANDY, KIDS

Doctor Blank, a very competent dentist, has a little girl 10 years old, whose teeth have always been perfect, never even a trifling cavity. The little girl was never allowed any candy until she was eight years old, and to this fact her father ascribes her well-preserved teeth. There is no other effect I can suggest that means so much to the health of a child as well-preserved teeth.

Mr. Dash, a newspaper man, has two little girls, one about six, the other about nine years old. Mr. Dash has a mean, low sense of humor. One day he took me, a stranger in his city, for a ride in his gasoline wagon. It turned out to be a very bad joke. "We'll drive up to Jane's place," he said. Well, not to prolong the agony, "Jane" proved to be the reprobate's wife. When we dropped in the children were pulling on all-day suckers. Never saw more perfect teeth than those healthy little girls had. Moreover, they seemed immune to tonsil and adenoid troubles. They had all the candy they wanted. The "whiskies" served there would never concern the revenue authorities—but I was terribly embarrassed until I saw the children, then I know we were safe.)

Good candy, by which I do not mean expensive candy, but candy without artificial coloring or chemical flavors, is very wholesome, very nourishing and very digestible. It has nothing to do with worms, regrettable as this may seem to Mrs. Gato. Growing children who engage in active play need a larger ration of sugar in one form or another than do adults of sedentary or dignified habit. Sugar, if properly used, is a building material, but it furnishes immediately available energy for the hard worked muscles of lively children including particularly the heart muscle.

Dr. Ruth Wheeler informs us, in the manual of the United States Food Administration, that sweets are all right: "Because of their flavor it is only too easy to eat too much of them. They are likely to cause digestive disturbances, to take away the appetite, for other more valuable foods if eaten at the wrong time; and therefore indirectly to cause anemia and bad health. Obviously they are entirely unbalanced foods, supply only fuel and no building materials in any permanent sense of the word. They must therefore be used as a supplement and not as a food. In moderation, as dessert after

WHO SAYS THOSE JANES CAN'T PLAY BALL?

ERRORLESS FIELDING IS FEATURE OF 2-0 VICTORY

(By KID REEF)
A few times a swat, errorless fielding and great pitching by Sam Longquist combined to give the Lawrence team a 2 to 0 victory over the Albany nine at that village yesterday afternoon under a sweltering sun that nearly burned up the boys. Village sportsmen turned out in masses to see their favorites lose after a game fight all the way.

Despite the heat and several chewing matches, the game was fast and some interesting. The Janes had to fight for everything they got, and the villagers should be given credit for putting up such a good game.

Just how fast the Janes worked in the field can be noted from the fact that only three Albany batters got past first, two to die peacefully at the stone sack, and one to pass away at the single corner. On the other hand, six Janes reached second safely and some went farther.

In the absence of Kleinhehn and Rice, the Janes bolstered up for the occasion with the addition of Sachs and Dixon. Two Beloit Fair basketball-players who, like yesterday, showed themselves to be some baseball players. Either can wear a Lawrence uniform any time he cares to now.

Sacks Shows Big

The Janes got their first run in the third inning when Sachs, first up, smacked out a clean double and went third on Tommie Croake's sacrifice fly. Longquist worked Eldred for a walk and then looked like a sure thing with only one out and two on. Broughton in an effort to tag Sachs on third let the ball get away from him in some mysterious way, and the little fellow was able to get home, and the little fellow was able to get home, and the little fellow was able to get home.

Longquist was called out on a bum decision at second. Dopp ended the inning by fanning, the seventh out. The eighth inning was not so good for the Janes. First up, he got his only single of the day, waited patiently on first base while Miller struck out and Viney's high fly to right field was not caught and then let it home when Dixon drove out a long one that was good for three bases. Dixon died there when Sachs struck out.

The Janes had two other chances to score in the first inning. Dopp singled and stole second and third while Pierce was busy taking three healthy swipes at the air.

Kalkausko drove one into the first base line and made the victors out of a double play at home plate on a close decision. Pierce walked on the fourth, but died there.

Albany threatened a score only once and that in the fifth inning, when Edwards doubled after H. Croake had ranned. Loeffel followed suit. Kittleston lifted a long low one to right, but Sachs made a pretty play, holding Edwards on third to die there when Longquist tightened up and struck out Eldred.

Sam Sure Can Pitch

The game uncovered a lot of things, the most important of which, that the Janes have a new pitcher, who can strike out a lot of batters. The Rockford hope, looked like a million bucks on the first line yesterday. He allowed only four hits, two of which came in one inning for naught. In addition, striking out 11 men. The only slip on his part came when he hit Edwards in the shoulder with a fast one. He fielded his position perfectly, fighting in five put-out, uncooked plenty of smoke and mixed in a number of benders to keep the Albanians guessing.

Rube Eldred pitched a good game for Albany, allowing only five hits, two of which went for extra bases. He issued three tickets to first. Given the proper support he would have come through with the score only 1 to 0.

The Janes made it a field day for the Albany outfielders, each of them pulling down two long flies for a total of six put-outs.

The Janes will play two home games this week-end, meeting the Telling Stars of Milwaukee, Saturday, and the Rockford Cardinals, Sunday.

Albany's third game is the same one that defeated the old Janes, 6-0, here early in the season and the one which beat Manitowoc 6 to 5, yesterday. Both these games should be a treat to fans.

Albany is scheduled to meet the Fairbanks-Morse Apprentices at Albany next Sunday. Manager Harry Croake announced yesterday.

BICK HURLS STARS TO 5-1 WIN OVER B. H. S. INFORMALS

Bevo Bick pitched big time ball at Beloit yesterday and helped the All Stars to defeat the Beloit High School Informals, 5 to 1, in one of the hardest fought games of the season. He allowed four hits in the first three innings but after that he held his opponents without a bingle, getting a triple himself with two on in the fifth inning, a single and two sacrifice hits.

Graff dropped a fly and Bick and Hagar each made an overthrow—the only errors charged up against the Stars who otherwise played a good game. Marko was the individual hitting star bunting out three singles and piling two sacks.

Ted Hagar performed at third due to the illness of Graesslin. The Informals got their only run in the third inning when Glasdon reached first on an error and scored on Leach's double.

The Stars got three runs in the fifth round when Marko singled and was advanced to second by Zahn's sacrifice. Crowley beat out an infield hit and came home with Marko on Bick's triple. Bick scored later on an overthrow. The other two runs came in the next inning when Graff hit one to center for two bags and scored when Marko followed suit. With two men out, Bick scored with a single.

Next Sunday the Stars will journey to Charley Bluff to meet the Milton Junction nine there.

WOOLENS RALLY AND BEAT PRODUCTS, 13-9

The Woolen Mills nine in a brilliant rally came from behind and defeated the Janesville Products Co. yesterday afternoon. The Products counted six times in the first inning through individual errors, but scored in only one inning after that.

Eastman, pitching for the Woollens, struck out 18 men and allowed but four hits. He was opposed by Eckert, the old Commercial League star, who was touched for 16 hits.

Jefferson retained its lead in the Central State league yesterday by defeating Port Atkinson, 6 to 5, in a game full of speed and hits. The lowly Watertown nine was defeated for the sixth time in a 12-inning game, while Whitewater had an easy time of it with Waukesha. The scores:

Whitewater 4; Juneau 0.
Jefferson 6; Port Atkinson 5.
Waukesha 3; Watertown 5.

Dodge, pitching for Whitewater, again proved too much for Juneau, allowing only two hits. He was invincible in the pinches, but was wild, walking eight men. The Briefer brothers of Whitewater got a triple and two doubles between them.

Waukesha had to travel 12 rounds in order to beat the Waterbugs, but Case rattled in the twelfth and let the Spring City gang clout him to all corners for the winning run.

EDGERTON DEFEATS MADISON, 3-2, FOR THIRD STRAIGHT WIN

Edgerton, June 16.—The Highway rangers cored their third straight victory yesterday at the Driving Park over the Essex Market's of Madison, by the score of 3 to 2.

The locals started the scoring in the first. Hefferton, first up singled, Williams laced out a nice two bagger which put Hefferton on third and Trevorah brought him in with a sacrifice fly.

In the second round L. Olson and L. Whitford singled, bases. Hefferton came across with his second hit scoring Olson, Williams sacrificed scoring Whitford.

After this inning Heaven tightened up and the locals were held to two hits after the second inning.

The visitors were unable to score until the fourth when a hit, a walk and an error let one in after two were down. They scored again in the seventh. The first man up walked, second man up singled, Hermanson tightened up and retired the next two on strikes. The Essex's put in a pinch hitter, who singled bringing in Boyler and Skedmore was retired at home plate attempting to score on the single.

Next Sunday the Telling All Stars of Milwaukee will appear here. As the expense will be considerable, it is hoped the fans will turn out strong so the team will not suffer a loss financially on this game.

Pieces of Eight

Being the authentic narrative of a treasure discovered in the Bahamas Islands in the Year 1003—now first given to the public.

By

RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"There was only me and Tobias then, and the dog, for the engineer boy had gone on his knees to the Susan B. fellows at the first crack, and begged them to take him away with them. There was no one left but Tobias and the dog and me, and I was sure my end was not far off, for I was never much of a shot.

"As God is my witness, sir, I was ready to die, and there was a moment when I thought that the time had come; but Tobias suddenly walked away to the top of the bluff and called out to the Susan B., that was just running up her sails. At his word they put out a boat for him, and while he waited he came down the hill toward me and the dog, that stood growling over you; and for sure I thought it was the end. But he said: 'Tell that fellow there that I'm not going to kill a defenseless man. He might have killed me once but he didn't. It's bound to be one of us some day or other, but, despise me all he likes—I'm not such a carrion as he thinks me; and if he only likes to keep out of my way I'm willing to keep out of his. Tell him when he wakes up that as long as he gives up going after what belongs to me—for it was my grandfather's—he is safe, but the minute he sets his foot or hand on what is mine, it's either his life or mine.' And then he turned away and was rowed to the Susan B., and they soon sailed away."

"With the black flag at the peak, I suppose, Tom," said I. "Well, that was a fine speech, quite a flight of oratory, and I'm sure I'm obliged to him for the life that's still worth having. In spite of this ungodly aching in my head. But how about the poor captain there? Where does all his eloquence come in there? He can't call it self-defense. They were waiting ready to murder us, as you saw. I'm afraid the captain and the law between them are all that is necessary to cook the goose of our friend Henry P. Tobias, Jr., without any help from me—though, as the captain died for me, I should prefer they allowed me to make it a personal matter."

"It's the beginning of the price," said Tom.

"The beginning of the price?" "It's the dead hand," continued Tom; "I told you, you'll remember, that wherever treasure is there's a ghost of a dead man, keeping guard and waiting till another dead man comes along to take up sentry duty so to say. The ghost is getting busy. And it makes me think that we're coming pretty near to the treasure, or we wouldn't have had all this happen. Mark me, the treasure's near by—or the ghost wouldn't be so malicious."

And then, looking around where the captain and the engineer and Silly Theodore lay, I said:

"The first thing we've got to do is to bury these poor fellows; but where," I added, "are the other two that fell in the water?"

"Oh," said Tom, "a couple of sharks got them just before you woke up."

CHAPTER VII.

In Which Tom and I Attend Several Funerals.

When Tom and I came to look over the ground with a view to finding a burial place for the dead I realized with grim emphasis the truth of Charlie Webster's remarks—in those snuggery nights that seemed so remote and far away—on the nature of the soil which would have to be gone over in quest of my treasure. No wonder he had spoken of dynamite.

"Why, Tom," I said, "there isn't a wheelbarrow load of real soil in a square mile. We couldn't dig a grave for a dog in stuff like this," and, as I spoke, the pebblelike rock under my feet clanged and echoed with a metallic sound.

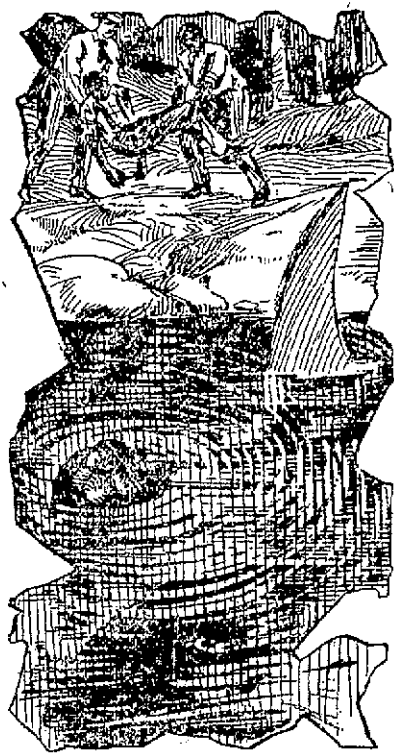

"Come along, Tom, I can't stand any more of this. We'll have to leave our funerals till tomorrow, and get aboard for the night—for the Maggie Darling was still floating there serenely, as though men and their violence had no existence on the planet.

"We'd better cover them up, against the turkey buzzards," said Tom; two of those unsavory birds rising in the air as we returned to the shore. We did this as well as we were able with rocks and the wreckage of an old boat strewn on the beach.

I don't think two men were ever so glad of the morning, driving before it the haunted night. After breakfast our first thought was naturally to the sad and disagreeable business before us.

"I tell you what I've been thinking, sir," said Tom, as we rowed ashore, and I managed to pull down a turkey

They Glided Off With Scarce a Splash.

buzzard that rose at our approach—happily our coverings had proved fairly effective—I've been thinking that the only one of the three that really matters is the captain, and we can find sufficient soil for him in one of those big holes."

"How about the others?" "Well, to tell the truth, I was thinking that sharks are good enough for them."

"They deserve no better, Tom, and I think we may as well get rid of them first."

So it was done as we said, and carrying them by the feet and shoulders to the edge of the bluff—George, and Silly Theodore, and the nameless giant who had knocked me down so opportunely—we skillfully flung them in, and they glided off with scarce a splash.

Then we turned to the poor captain and carried him as gently as we could over the rough ground to the biggest of the banana holes, as the natives call them, and there we were able to dig him a fairly respectable grave.

Tom and Sailor and I were now, to the best of our belief, alone on the island, and a lonesome spot it would be hard to imagine, or one touched at certain hours with a fairer beauty—a beauty wraithlike and, like a sea shell, haunted with the marvel of the sea.

First we went over our stores, and, thanks to those poor dead mouths that did not need to be reckoned with any more, we had plenty of everything to last us for at least a month, not to speak of fishing, at which Tom was an expert.

When, however, we turned to our plans for the treasure hunting we soon came to a dead stop. The indications given by Tobias seemed, in the face of such a terrain, naive to a degree. Possibly the land had changed since his day. Some little, of course, it must have done. Tom and I went over Tobias' directions again and there was the compass carved on the rock, and the cross. There was something definite—something which, if it was ever there at all, was there still—for in that climate the weather leaves things unperturbed almost as in Egypt.

You Can Now Enforce Your Gasoline Rights in Janesville

JANESVILLE is numbered in the list of cities and communities of Southern and Eastern Wisconsin which are regularly supplied with genuine, straight-run, old-fashioned

True Gasoline Wadhams

Gasoline of this grade and value is a rarity in most sections of the country, owing to the widespread domination of the market by imitation gasolines, made by an imperfect process from the dregs of crude oils.

Under the brand of a nationally notorious monopoly, this rank and kerosenish by-product is unblushingly sold to you as the real thing—at a price out of all keeping with its cheap production from waste materials.

You and your motor have a right to enjoy something better—the quick starting, the missless running, the freedom from carbon and the absence of kerosene that you can only get from the old style, straight run real gasoline—the quality product exclusively supplied by Wadhams Oil Company of Milwaukee.

Enforce this right of yours. Demand that your garage man or retailer equip himself to supply you with Wadhams True Gasoline. If he cannot give it to you, telephone us and we will direct you to one who will. For the sake of smoother running, better mileage and safety to your motor --insist!
